

General Electoral District 2002

Title

GED2002_V1_00

Description

General Electoral District 2002 is the definitive set of 2002 general electoral district boundaries as defined by the Electoral Commission as at 18 April 2002. Land Information New Zealand (LINZ) and Statistics New Zealand are the custodians. These districts comprise the general electoral districts as constituted under the Electoral Act 1993. General electoral districts extend to the 12 mile limit and are defined at meshblock level. The number of general electoral districts, and electoral populations for each electorate, is controlled by the criteria in the Electoral Act 1993. Within these criteria, when setting the boundaries, the Representation Commission considers community of interest, facilities of communication, topographical features, and any projected variation in the general electoral population of those districts during their existence. The Representation Commission is convened by the Surveyor-General every five years, following a population census and Māori Electoral Option. Its role is to re-draw electoral boundaries to follow prescribed population quotas. General Electoral District is a flat classification with 62 categories.
